JUDGE TARVIN, the greatest notoriety seeker in Kentucky, addressed a letter to Chairman Young, of the State Central Committee, urging that the Courier-Journal be repudiated, declaring the opposition of the democratic organization to all that paper represents, and declaring that the democracy of Kentucky is not seeking, in this election, the aid. countenance or approval of any of the enemies of the Chicago platform of 1896. Then he adds: "As for me, I would prefer the election of the republican ticket to democratic success based upon any suggestion or suspicion of a repudiation of the Chicago platform of 1896, or any leb Powers of Knox county, for secre part of it." Tarvin has had an idea for a long time that on him was imposed the duty of carrying the world on his shoulders. He has the vice presidential bee in his bonnet and is really of the impression that he is made of the auditor. Walter R. Day, of Breathitt, same material of old Allan Thurman and the other distinguished men of his line. The democratic party wants every vote it can get and if the Courier-Journal gives its support voluntarily as it does to the ticket, it will be worth many thousands of votes more than Tarvin will, who is smarting under the mortification induced by the failure of the convention to endorse him for the and bringing forth a mouse. vice presidency. No democratic paper would publish his letter and he had to resort to republican sheets to air his grievances. Let him rave. Such men as he do no credit to any party.

HON. G. R. KELLER addresses an his paper, the Carlisle Mercury, taking us to task for saying a good democrat like he has always been, oughtn't to sully his record by writing of the democratic convention like he does. We appreciate and reciprocate the kind feelings he expresses of us, but his effort to bring the ticket in to disrepute by charging all manner of fraud in its nomination, can have no other effect than to give aid and encouragement to the enemy he has fought for the last 30 or more years. Look how they copied his editorial and patted him on the back with a "bully boy." We are not personally aware of the doings of the late convention, but those who participated tell us that no more trickery was resorted to than usual and that in the matter of it one was as deep in the mud as the other was in the mire. Each candidate was playing for advantage his family circle, anxiety and suspense other two, won. That's seems to be all him utterly disabled, unfitted for, and there is of it. > One result of the war with Spain has been to so advertise this country as to make it more attractive to foreign tourists. More wealthy and titled people from abroad are visiting the United States than ever before. Speaking of this, the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "Sir Richard and Lady Musgrave arrived in the will make a tour of the country. It seems about as fashionable abroad now adays for our English cousins to visit us during the summer as it is for us to visit them."

> "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," is often being verified. A little girl in Lewiston, Me., has been compelled to wear glasses on account of near-sightedness, or some other defect of vision. Recently she had a severe illness of scarlet fever, and it was feared she would lose her sight entirely, if not her life. Strange to say, she not only recovered from the fever, but it has been the means of restoring her eyes to perfect vision, and she has now discarded her glasses, seeing as well as any child of her age.

> Many members of the Sac and Fox tribe of Indians in Iowa have refused to accept annuities because of the old Algonquin superstition that all their lands belong to the Great Spirit, and, as the annuities arise from the government sales of the lands, their acceptance of the proceeds would bar them from the "happy hunting grounds."

THE old head that the Hon. Geo. M Davison carries around with him may not be very pretty, but it is chuck full of schemes and resources that come to led to these remarks by what was done here Monday. He found after feeling the pulse of the republicans that his scheme to instruct for Stone because he is a district man wouldn't work worth a cent, as according to A. G. Faulkner and other leading men of the party, Taylor had 10 to 1 over any oth. er man in the county. Under the state structing for Stone, and Mr. Davison thought it would look too bad to instruct for Taylor, so he laid awake all one night and evolved a scheme to have Mr. A. A. McKinney instructed for for treasurer and then argue that it was not wise to instruct for other candidates, when a county had one of its own. The scheme worked like a charm, McKinney alone was instructed

THE swellest social function of the eason was that in honor of Misses Olive Woodson, of Kansas City, and Ollie Baldwin, of Richmond, given last evening by Miss Fannie Shanks at "The Oaks," the handsome country home of her brother, W. H. Shanks. There were some 75 guests present and they enjoyed every moment of the were to be guessed, were given each guest. The one who answered the greatest number was given a prize, Miss Mary Logan winning the handsome bracelets and Samuel J. Embry, Jr., the silver match safe as first prizes. Unfortunately a solution of the whole thing was discovered and there were, of course, many correct answers and consequently a good deal of cutting for the prizes. The refreshments were delightful in themselves and superbly served and everything combined to make the evening memorable, incluiing the sweet music made by the town band. Miss Shanks added greatly to her reputation as an entertainer and about our her charming guests added scores to their long list of friends here.

REMARKABLE RESCUE.

REMARKABLE RESCUE.

Mrs. Michael Curtain. Plainfield. Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever ws.--Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Penny's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.
